A Douglas Street restaurant has the dubious distinction of being first to raise its coffee price per cup from the already outrageous 15 cents to an unbelievable 25 cents. Starting Saturday waitresses toted out new, somewhat larger size Irish mugs and hiked the price.

One regular was told by another who had just gone through the new terror of paying his check:

"The waitress was so embarrassed she said she didn't Okay, so it costs six bits in some New York spots. This isn't New York.

This is more in fellow columnist Penny Saver's line, but I heard recently of a real "bargain." Seems an Eastern mall-order firm has been offering a tiny, cordless, batteryless device for improving hearing.

Price-just $25. And if not satisfied, ou could return it for the small "restock ing" fee of $5.

Those birds one follows to Victoria aren't popular with the tourists—at least that's what Mrs. K. M. Ash thinks. In a letter to the Times published recently, Mrs. Ash, 2596 Selwyn, complained:

Such a waste is the seagull as a symbol," It's a scavenger, she said, does not truly represent the character of Victoria and Vancouver Island, and creates unpleasantness in the minds of tourists.

"I wonder whether Mrs. Ash realizes the seagull is one of the few birds protected?" asked Visitors Bureau assistant commissioner Mike Heppell.

And as a scavenger, the bird is pretty successful in keeping our beaches clean.
In Salt Lake City (south of the border where our tourists come from) there's a eagull statue. Seems he saved the city by destroying ravaging grasshoppers.

Mr. Heppell also recalls a war hero adrift on a raft who noticed a clean white seagull soaring over his raft.

He ate it. He was certainly grateful for the seagull," said Mr. Heppell.

Another Huge Surplus

shows that the rising tide of pros-perity, not only in this province but throughout the nation and most parts of the Western world where British Columbia's products are sold, has resulted in record government revenues of $389 millions.

This total is about $28 millions more than in the previous fiscal year and, more interesting, it is about $17 millions more than Mr. Bennett and his financial experts had figured on garnering. Provincial spending was also up this year, to $368 millions plus another $17 millions spent to pay off the Deas Island Tunnel and Oak Street Bridge debts. On the basis of what was budgetted for the year, and leaving out the debt payment, government spending was about $4 millions under the estimate.

So here we go again. By overestimating his spending by $4 millions and underestimating his revenues by a whopping $17 millions, Mr. Bennett has come up beaming with a "surplus" of $21 millions. With all this "found" money the government was able to reduce the public debt by $17 millions and end the tolls on the Deas Tunnel throughway system and still have $4 millions over.

past years, the question must be is supremely aware.

DRELIMINARY INFORMATION asked; Why is it that Mr. Bennett given by Premier Bennett on and his advisers, whose unsurpassed financial results of the 1963-64 shrewdness in financial matters is fiscal year which ended March 31 constantly acclaimed by Social Credit supporters, can so wildly overestimate the expenditures and underestimate the revenues of the province which they govern?

It may be, although we doubt it, that the government spent $4 millions less than was budgetted because of frugality and efficiency in all its various departments rather than by simply padding the departmental estimates at the start.

If, in fact, the government did underestimate the revenue increase, which was two-and-one-half times what was forecast, its reputation for financial shrewdness suffers considerably. However, the suspicion persists, as it has in other years, that the underestimating is done for the purpose of taking credit for a prosperity which has come about largely through influences over which the government has no control.

It certainly must be admitted, however, that despite the possible deception involved, British Columbians must prefer that expenditures overestimated and revenues underestimated than the other way around. Even though the book keeping has been sloppy, or deceptive, surpluses are much to be pre-ferred over deficits and this is ob-But once again this year, as in viously a fact of which Mr. Bennett

THROUGH INFORMATIVE and by means of interviews with the minister of municipalities, the southern Vancouver Island region is moving sanely in its study of plans for what has been called the 'mini-metro" scheme.

Before the various localitiesand municipalities—can map out a sensible course of action, they need to know more about the plans, the benefits and the obligations they would be shouldering. This calls for study of details not yet undertaken by many of them. As we see it, no argument can be raised against the principle of taking regional action on regional problems which depend on co-ordinated effort to provide a solution. The hesitancy arises, apart from a matter of a diminishing attachment to local pride, over the means by which costs will be shared.

In his brief outline of the joint services board on this page the other day, the minister, Mr. Dan Campbell, contended that since such an agency would not be a third level of government and would derive its authority to initiate projects and to requisition taxes through the representative base of local government, and not through the delega-tion of authority from senior government, co-ordination of financial requirements of its member areas ceases to be a major problem.

city has too often thrown too much into the general pot and received something less than a fair share back on regional projects.

The point can be debated. Cermeetings in outlying districts tainly any financial provisions for a joint services board should take into consideration the contribution each proposed participant should bring to the "mini-metro".

Prospective members should understand that fact clearly. At the same time, those of greater wealth should be prepared to be generous in a concerted effort to overcome problems which can only be handled through joint action.

As a case in point, Victoria city must give serious thought to the sewer disposal requirements of out-lying areas, since the health haz-ards posed by faulty methods would not be cut off short at the city's Inevitably, of course, the move ment toward a joint services board will run head-on into the question of who pays how much for the gen-eral benefit of the region. No doubt Mr. Campbell has given thought to the part the provincial government, with its much greater opportunities for raising revenue, should play in providing required funds.

action is essential to come to grips with problems which no single unit in the region can cope with adequately.

The Long-Shot Chance

BEFORE the balloting begins, it is an D act of justice to recognize the skill with which the Goldwater organizers have captured this convention. It has been essentially a triumph of organization carried out against great odds. Senator Goldwater is not in the process of winning the Republi-can nomination merely by default. The other Republican leaders steadily underesti- Freedman mated his strength. They thought no mated his strength. They thought he candidate could ever win the nomination if he had very little support in the big Eastern states; if most of the press was against him; and if all the polls showed he was more popular with the delegates than with the voters. All these calculations have now been confounded.

Survived Mistakes

Instead of emerging as a broken. crusader from the primaries, he has survived all his mistakes and indis-cretions. It would be wrong to say that a silent revolution has shifted the sources of power in the Republican Party from the East to the West and the Southwest. That revolution has been anything but silent. We now can see however that there was a vast organized strength behind all the noise and a determined skill in organizing the

Even then the result might have been doubt-

Governor Scranton has been less than candid in calling Senator Goldwater a defeatist candidate because the sena-tor admitted in an interview June 30 tor admitted in an interview June 30 that as of then he could not defeat President Johnson. The governor must know that various polls show the President running ahead of Governor Scramton not only nationally but in his own state of Pennsylvania. Senator Goldwater bases his hopes of national victory, now bleak and remote, on what may happen between now and November.

Impressive Six Months

This certainly is one of the longest This certainly is one of the longest shots in American politics. But after what has happened in the last six months, when he has been resolute where others have been indifferent or ineffective, no one should assume that he will be blind to the chances that may yet come his way.

Some Goldwater organizers have compared their campaign to Senator John Kennedy's campaign in There clearly are some similarities, above all in the knowledge that a presidential campaign is never a splendid improvisation but is always a matter of supreme organization. But there is a decisive difference. The greatest asset in Senator Kennedy's campaign was the senator himself. Would anyone say that was true of Senator Goldwater? He is so vulnerable that he has been protected from the public and allowed few chances in recent weeks to speak without careful coaching. This cannot last once the presidential campaign starts.

Party Vote

The Goldwater people are saying that very few voters in 1960 voted the Republican ticket because they admired Mr. Nixon personally. They argue that Mr. Nixon got the rock-bottom Republican vote, together with the anti-Catholic vote. They now predict that the defections from Senator Goldwater in the populous Eastern states, when all the chips are down, will be far less than now appears inevitable. In addition, without wishing to excite racial prejudice, they believe that Senator Goldwater cannot help but gain many votes by his stand on civil rights.

At this time this projection of Senator Goldwater's strength seems exaggerated and unrealistic. But he has one powerful asset—the apathy of the Democratic Party — which may yet make it come true. With a complacent pride that invites punishment, all too many Democrats are now talking of a victory similar to the result in when President Roosevelt crushed the hapless Alf Landon. The Democrats, in short, may be grotesquely underesti-mating Senator Goldwater, just as his Republican rivals underestimated him. The composition of this Goldwater Convention shows how dangerous this mistake can be.

Risks of Frankness

IN HIS report on Cyprus to the committee on external affairs, Mr. Martin last Thursday drew pointed attent to the fact that "in the parliaments of the other countries contributing forces to the UN . . . the day-by-day conduct of the force has not been a subject for the governments concerned to constantly defend or explain." There has been some criticism of the minister because he has shown a marked reluctance to furnish detailed answers to the anxious questions addressed to him by members of the opposition parties. The activities of General Grivas, the infiltrations from Greece and the con-nivance of the Cypriot police in at least one breach of the security council reso lution are serious matters, with obvious implications for the security of Canadian troops on the island. It is natural that reports from Cyprus should occasion widespread concern and equally natural that this in turn should provoke questions in Parliament.

Repercussions

At the same time Mr. Martin has a case for reticence because words spoken in the Canadian Parliament may have unfortunate repercussions overseas. There is, no doubt, a good deal of information coming into the department which it would be improper or irresponsible to disclose publicly either because Canada is only one contributor to an interna-tional venture or because publication tiations involving the peace of Cyprus and the safety of those directly involved in the UN effort. vould have an adverse effect on nego-

In a situation so complex and dangerous, it is obvious that the opposition also bears a responsibility. Questions are bound to arise but they ought not to be pressed to the point of danger. The House is naturally suspicious of evasion and inclined to be sceptical of replies suggesting that a certain disclosure would be contrary to the public interest.

But there are undoubtedly occasions on which such a reply is fully justified and in the present difficult circumstances, with the threat of spreading war in the eastern Mediterranean, the un-palatable fact must be recognized that the minister alone can be the judge of whether a particular reply would, or would not, breach the public interest.

The plans of General Grivas and his precise relations with the governments of Greece and Cyprus cannot be known with certainty. It may very well be, however, that he regards the UN force, even with the strictly limited role outlined by Mr. Martin on Thursday, as a lined by Mr. Martin on Thursday, as a serious obstacle to the attainment of his goal of enosis.

If this is the case, questions in our House of Commons such as those addressed to the government on Tuesday—inquiries suggesting that the United Nations is being "played for a sucker." implying that our forces are in great danger or that the Bonaventure should be available for a speedy troop with drawal—would seem bound to encour-age partisans of a military solution in a campaign of intimidation designed to get rid of the peace-keeping force.

Turkish Reaction

They might also, if read in Ankara, cause the Turks to make counter-moves in preparation for such an eventuality. While Mr. Martin claimed, and rightly, that the UN force had succeeded up to then in its prime objectives—heading off the threat of invasion and buying time for the mediator—he was frank in ume for the mediator—he was frank in recognizing the continuing dangers of the situation. It is a fact, however, that Parliament had no illustrate Parliament had no illusions when it authorized Canadian participation last

The mood of the House at that time was best expressed by Mr. Douglas when he said: "I think we have to recognize that we are assuming a hazardous, thankless and discouraging task. We have to be prepared for a long and difficult assignment in which lives may be lost. Moreover, the role we play may be an unpopular one. Nobody ever made friends by interfering in a family fight. I hope we recognize that this will be an arduous and dangerous task and that we ought not to go into it without weighing all its aspects. We should go into it with our eyes open and our resolve high.

Parliament will deserve respect if it maintains the spirit of March amid the discouragements of this dangerous sumas possible with the House, but members in turn should recognize the inherent difficulties of his position and exercise reasonable restraint in the questions which they address to the government.

No Place in Pound

Miss Knight's excellent letter of July 3 re the illegality of the obnoxious pas-time of trapping domestic cats is quite correct. According to law cats are freeroaming animals, therefore cannnot com mit trespass, and as such have no place in the municipal pound bylaw.

All domestic animals are the subject of absolute property and an owner re-tains his property in these even if they or are lost.

The trapping of neighbors' pets by enticement onto another's property un-der cover of darkness is a despicable act as well as being illegal. When a pet is lost, it does not occur to decent people that a trusted neighbor may have trapped and impounded or otherwise disposed of their pet; thus valuable time is lost searching for it while the four-day pound "deadline," so conscientiously carried out by the SPCA, is soon expended and so is the life of a much valuable pet.

Some time ago, Dr. John A. Dyer, an ophthalmologist at the Mayo Clinic, discussed the use of contact lenses. I was surprised to see his statement that they were used in the late 1890s in Zurich, Switzerland. He said that for a while, in 1930, they were made by Zeiss in Germany, but not until 1948 was a smaller or corneal lens developed which fits only on the clear window of the eye. Such lenses have been perfected in recent years.

Dr. Dyer says that contact lenses are not advisable when there is any acute disease of the eyes,

Alvarez such as a mild conjunctivitis (an inflamma tion of the lids and the lining of the eye outside of the corneal window). Contact ses must not be used in cases of acute glaucoma, or iritis, or keratitis. In glau coma the tension in the eyeball is too high; in iritis there is an inflammation of the little membrane in the front of the eye which regulates the amount of light that goes in. Keratitis is an inflammation of the strong outer structure of the eyeball.

Dr. Dyer says it is dangerous to use con tact lenses if a person has scars on his cor-nea. People living in cold climates are happier with contact lenses than are people in warm climates. Contact lenses can be satisfactorily even in the Arctic and Antarctic. They don't frost over as much as spectacle lenses do. Children usually should not be fitted with contact lenses, because they can't handle them properly.

Contact lenses can be worn in all types of sports—even swimming under water. For football players, the lenses must be fitted tightly to the cornea so that they will not be dislodged easily.

The lenses are usually somewhat smaller The lenses are usually somewhat smaller in diameter than is the cornea. Capillary attraction of the film of tears keeps the lenses in close apposition to the cornea; it rides on this film of tears. There is continuous movement of the lens, but this has no adverse effect on visual acuity.

Whether a person can use contact lenses depends largely on his willpower. The pa-tient who is likely to have trouble is one who is nervous and tense, or afraid to put the lenses in the eyes, or later to remove them. Also, a person may be unwilling to accept the discomfort which he will experience when he first starts using the lenses.

The lenses are particularly helpful in a number of types of visual difficulty. They can be tinted a bit when the person is albino and has practically no color in the irises of his eyes. Then his lenses will help to keep unwanted light out of his eyes.

Lenses had best be removed at night and put back in the morning. It is probably best to start wearing the lenses two or three hours the first day and then increasing the time a half or an hour daily until they peraps can be used comfortably all day.

If a tiny foreign body, like a bit of dust, gets under the lens, the lens must immediately be removed, otherwise the cornea can be scratched. There is very little danger in using the lenses. One of my friends who worn contacts for three years recently had her corneas checked carefully by an able ophthalmologist, and he could not find a scratch. If there should be any abrasion of the cornea, the lens must be left off until the abrasion heals.

A few people think of using the lenses only for social events like a bridge game, but this is inadvisable; it is better to learn to use the lenses throughout every day.

A while ago, Mrs. R. A. Camerini-Davalos and Alexander Marble of the Joslin Clinic in Boston reported their experience with hundreds of patients treated for periods of time up to five years with one of the splendid anti-diabetic pills that can be taken by mouth. The doctors were concerned particularly with the occasional tendency of the drug to fail to work well after it has been used for anywhere from a day to five years.

Among the factors considered responsible for this occasional failure were (1) the unwise selection of patient for a trial of the pills. Some of them would have done better to have remained on insulin; (2) the patient's failure to stick to his diet; (3) an inadequate dosage of the medicine, and (4) some cause as yet unknown.

Fortunately, when the orally-taken drug fails to work, it is easy for the patient to go on insulin. The important point is that he or she be checked occasionally by an expert to see how well his diabetes is being controlled.

B.C. Energy Board, headed by Dr. Gordon Shrum who later became a B.C. Hydro co-chairman, who formally dissented from the board's report that Peace River power would be as cheap as Columbia River power if it was publicly owned. Evidence in the BCE take-over trial showed the late BCE president A. E. (Dal) Grauer initially refused demands that he sign up to buy Peace River power but later took shares in the development company.

Speculation in such an event could go as far as portraying the situation where PUC told B.C. Hydro—as it had warned the BCE—that if the tranchises were dropped retail electricity rates also would have to drop by a substantial margin and at the same time.

That's the stuff that dreams are made of for civic councils.

Aside from all this background and speculation, it appears certain that bus riders can expect a fully sympathetic hearing Doug Morton and Ken I

FATHER: Say, the engine sits sideways!

SALESMAN: Right . . . another BMC idea! This way, they cut down on engine space and allow a whopping 80% of the car's length for passengers and luggage. You get front-wheel drive too, a great feature for pulling through sand and snow. And the engine, transmission and differential are all lubricated from one oil supply!

DAUGHTER: Look, mommy, my dolly's suitcase can go in here! SALESMAN: That's one of the best things about the Morris 1100. You can put luggage everywhere . . . in both front doors, under the seats, in the giant back window shelf and under the dash . . . and, of course, in the roomy trunk. There's still room for five people!

FATHER: What's all this about Float-on-Fluid Suspension?

SALESMAN: It's a BMC invention, proved by millions of miles of driving. No springs or shock absorbers . . . but a special system that eliminates pitch and roll even on the roughest country roads. You actually float on fluid in the Morris 11001

Suspended Firm May Change Hands

TORONTO (CP)-Control of the Toronto-based broker-age firm of John Frame and Co., whose trading privileges were suspended by the Toronto, Montreal and Canadian Stock Exchanges Friday, may pass into other hands, J. T. Frame, senior partner and controlling shareholder, said today.

The company's privileges were suspended after an audit by the Toronto Stock Exchange revealed the firm's finances to be below the minimum capital reserve figure set by the exchange.

OILS

Mr. Frame said taxation problems caused the working capital shortage, and added that "there is no possibility or thought that anyone could lose any money.

Mouth-to-Race Horse Resuscitation Claimed

SEATTLE (AP) - A woman trainer claimed Sunday she saved the life of a thoroughbred racehorse with mouthto-nose resuscitation.

Mrs. Eileen Steele, in an interview with the Seattle Times, said the drama occurred at nearby Longacres race track when her horse, Correlson, fell as she was giving it a workout early Saturday.

"About a sixteenth of a mile before he fell, I could hear him gasping for air," she said.

Then Correlson fell. Mrs. Steele landed on her feet.

"He had stopped breathing," she reported. "I straightened his head and just blew and sucked until he started breathing again."

Track veterans said they never heard of such a thing.

What makes taste so

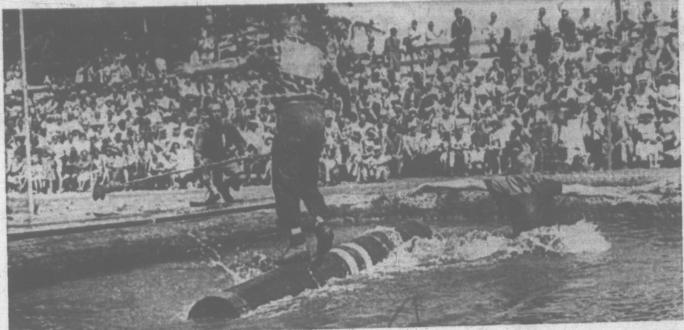

Two things. Special hops and special malt.

There's a small valley on the far side of the Alps in Europe that grows one particular strain of hops. It's the only kind of hops we use in Gold Keg.

The malt we use is specially prepared, too, just for Gold Keg Beer. It does a lot for the unique flavour.

Try a Gold Keg soon . . . the different beer you can't be indifferent to.

This was the climax of the log birling contest—one of the feature attractions at All-Sooke Day logging festival

Saturday.
The art of log-birling—two opponents jousting to throw each other off a spinning and bouncing log, is fast becoming a popular sport in Canada and the United States. It is well established in the Pacific Northwest, particularly in Washington and Oregon.

TOO LATE

In the Sooke match, Jubiel lost the joust by being a fraction of a second too late in

Push the profit button

Telephones with pushbuttons on them are one of today's biggest aids to greater business efficiency (and, therefore, to greater profits). They are as convenient as having a miniature switchboard right at your finger tips and can prove a particular boon to expanding office operations.

With the compact six-button telephone, for example, you can receive outside calls on up to four separate lines, hold them and have them transferred. With the 18-button Call Director you can do all these things several times over.

There is almost no limit to the versatility of these "key systems", as we call them, and they can be adapted for large or small organizations alike. They also cost considerably less than many people imagine.

Why not get the facts on how one or more "key systems" could help your business run more smoothly and economically. We'll gladly give you an estimate on a system tailored to your own special requirements - naturally without any obligation. MASS MEETING SET

Fare Fighters Gain Strength

A newly-formed Greater Victoria citizens' group Widening Plan protesting the proposed bus fare increase is growing To Await rapidly, president Mrs. Traffic Study Kenneth Peaker reported today.

Mass meeting for persons opposing the 25-cent bus fare suggestion is being planned for 8 p.m. Thursday in Woodsworth Hall, 721 Courtney.

"Any person who wants to support us is welcome at the meeting. We will discuss a draft brief which we plan to submit to the Public Utilities Commission whenever it holds hearings in Victoria on the bus fares," she said.

Mrs. Peaker, whose organwas formed only Ization was formed only Thursday with about a score of charter members, said it is being supported solidly.

"We had more than 50 calls between two of us in just a few hours after work on Fri-day," she said. "The phone just kept going all the time.

Pensioners, other low-income groups and families with several school children would be the hardest hit by the fare hikes, Mrs. Peaker said.

Anyone wishing to add their support should phone her at GR 94063 or Mrs. Leonard Tonning at EV 2-3532.

ABNER DOUBLEDAY!

Complete Summer Wardrobe While You Sew and Save

By PENNY SAVER

Summer is a time for trying your hand at something new and what could be more appropriate than making your self-one of the new-style shifts, beachjackets or beachbags.

Shop I was in recently is selling a gamut of the latest styles in trimmings for just such sportswear.

Terry towelling is still one of the most popular fabrics for beachwear and shop is selling it in plain, striped and print tones priced from 98 cents to $1.89 a yard.

For an added touch of color one of the heavy rope belts is ideal. These are available in white, red, blue, green and yellow and sell at 35 cents a yard, Rope also makes dandy draw strings for your beachbag.

To wear on your summer shifts is a new rayon braid that is priced at two for 25 cents. Braid can be used in single strand or three strands can be braided together for added width and color.

Also among their stock of trimmings, I found the latest fancy braids for wools, rayons and shantung. Narrow braiding sells at 20 cents and wide at 39 cents. These include such colors as white, gold, cream; combinations of white and gold and gold and black.

By now you've probably all heard of the new stretch strap bras, but did you know that this stretch elastic is also available for sewing in bathing suits or for changing straps

Price of this elastic is 49 and 59 cents a yard according to width and clerk I spoke to says that many girls have found it exceptionally useful when making their own bathing suits. If you would like to know where Penny shopped for these items, call her at 382-3131.

Andy Stephen Looks at TV

Did you notice, during the television coverage of preconvention activity at the Republican national convention last week, that many of the camera shots of the politicians took on a more intimate, less rehearsed air about

This would be the work of remarkable one man, portable televi-sion stations of the type pictured Saturday in the Times weekend tele-

All three networks are in possession of these cableless cameras, and their various merits and differences? in quality may make for interesting and absorbing competition.

The picture in the weekend Times showed CBS-TV reporter Mike Wallace with that network's new

The Minicam Mark II, with the camera, trans mitter pack, power supply and transmitter, weighs less than 29 pounds. The camera itself is five inches high, four inches wide, 10 inches long, including the lens, and weighs $6\frac{1}{2}$ pounds.

However, miniature cameras are not all that new and the principal point of the Minicam is its "revelutionary" tube which is reported to be able to send back fine quality pictures even under adverse lighting conditions. The Minicam has a battery-powered lighting system that goes with it to light the scene in darkened areas.

The device is battery operated and the signal is sent back to the control room by microwave relay . . . that is, no cable. The operator of this remote unit is a completely equipped television station all by himself. The reporter's or commenator's remarks are sent over a microphone which is a wireless mike plus a transmitter, which sends the sound to the control

There were strikes against the leading United States copper producer, Kennecott Copper and a continuing Teams ters dispute affecting distribu-tion of automobiles on the U.S. East Coast.

There also were continued contract meetings between the leading auto makers and the United Auto Workers Union. And talks opened in discussions to settle problems that led two winters ago to a crippling dock when the Peace River project starts to produce in 1968, Premier Bennett said Friday. He said this means that there will probably be no exports to the U.S. until the 1970s.

By that time, he said, B.C. will be producing power from three new sources: the Peace, the Columbia River and the northern reaches of the Fraser

Mr. Bennett said that the growth of B.C.'s power require ments is exceeding all estimates. He said that during the past three months the load growth has increased between 10 and 12 per cent over 1963.

This was while one of B.C. Hydro's biggest customers, Mac-Millan, Bloedel and Powell River Co., was shut down in the Alberni Valley because of strike, he added.

The projected load growth is only 7 per cent, Mr. Bennet

This means that in 1968, when the first phase of the Peace is in production, B.C. will still not have enough

Mr. Bennett said that B.C.

Suspended Firm May Change Hands

TORONTO (CP)-Control of the Toronto-based broker-age firm of John Frame and Co., whose trading privileges were suspended by the Toronto, Montreal and Cana-dian Stock Exchanges Friday, may pass into other hands, J. T. Frame, senior partner and controlling shareholder, said today.

The company's privileges were suspended after an audit by the Toronto Stock Exchange revealed the firm's finances to be below the minimum capital reserve figure set by the exchange.

Mr. Frame said taxation ms caused the working capital shortage, and added that "there is no possibility or thought that anyone could lose any money."

Push the profit button

Telephones with pushbuttons on them are one of today's biggest aids to greater business efficiency (and, therefore, to greater profits). They are as convenient as having a miniature switchboard right at your finger tips and can prove a particular boon to expanding office operations.

With the compact six-button telephone, for example, you can receive outside calls on up to four separate lines, hold them and have them transferred. With the 18-button Call Director you can do all these things several times over.

There is almost no limit to the versatility of these "key systems", as we call them, and they can be adapted for large or small organizations alike. They also cost considerably less than many people imagine.

Why not get the facts on how one or more "key systems" could help your business run more smoothly and economically. We'll gladly give you an estimate on a system tailored to your own special requirements — naturally without any obligation. Call our Marketing & Sales Department today, or have your secretary send for our free brochure.
